

International MBA

Constantly evolving to meet the needs of our changing world

Objective

This dual degree has been designed for students who want to combine IE Business School's innovative and diverse International MBA program with MIT Sloan's prestigious faculty and teaching methodologies. Students can personalize their learning experience and deepen their knowledge in a particular area of management and then write a thesis at MIT Sloan by working closely with a MIT faculty member. Students are advised on how to combine their professional and educational experiences as they connect with the world's leading firms and distinguish themselves in the competitive job marketplace.

Admissions criteria

Students will apply to both schools separately. The MIT-Sloan: IMBA - MSMS Dual Degree is only available to students beginning their International MBA in November. In addition, only those who have completed or are in the process of completing their International MBA at IE Business School may apply to the Master of Science in Management Studies program.

IE Business School

To apply you must submit the online application along with the required supporting documents and the GMAT/GRE or IE Admission test. If your complete file meets the selection committee's criteria, you will be invited for an interview. The admissions' committee will evaluate the entire application process before making a final decision.

Deadlines

IE Business School offers a rolling admissions process. As such, there are no submission deadlines for any particular intake. However, given the limited number of places in the program and the diverse student body, it is highly recommended you present your application approximately one year prior to program commencement, especially as seats fill prior to the program start.

MIT Sloan

Applicants will be evaluated based on performance in their International MBA, recommendations, application essay, and other criteria. To be considered, applicants must demonstrate stellar undergraduate and graduate school grade point averages as well as GMAT, GRE, and/or TOEFL scores.
